Description: This telehealth dietitian practice has been serving clients across multiple states for years and offers personalized, functional nutrition plans. The approach is food first, with testing and supplements added when helpful. The practice is fully online, which keeps overhead low and makes day-to-day operations easy to manage.

It accepts insurance and has a strong referral network of physicians and healthcare providers who consistently send new clients. The current owner works limited hours, so there's room to grow by expanding availability, adding marketing, or building on the existing referral and insurance relationships.

To protect the confidentiality of the business, all inquiries will need to sign an NDA before receiving the name and financials. For more information, contact 208.600.0571 or znobmann@tworld.com
